A guide to offering your dog the best diet by giving them home-made dog food and the nutrients that they need to live long, healthy lives. Food allergies account for about ten percent of all the allergies seen in dogs. They also generally account for twenty percent of the causes of itching and scratching in dogs. Just how a pet becomes sensitized to a particular agent in the food, which in turn creates a complicated antibody response in the dog's intestinal tract, is not very well understood. Despite our lack of understanding of how these food allergies affect our dogs, we do, however, understand many things: the symptoms, how to diagnose food allergies, and also how to treat them. Food allergies affect both male and female dogs, and can show up as early as five months and as late as 12 years of age. But most cases occur when the dog is between 2 and 6 years of age. The symptoms of food allergies are similar to those of most allergies seen in dogs. The primary symptom is itchy skin that mostly affects the face, feet, ears, forelegs, armpits, and the area around the anus. Symptoms could also include chronic or recurrent ear infections, hair loss, hot spots, and skin infections that respond to antibiotics but reoccur after antibiotics are discontinued. Dogs with food allergies sometimes have an increased incidence of bowel movements during the day.
