At the moment 1 in 3 of us will get cancer and it's predicted that this will soon increase to 1 in 2. Yet there are cultures in the world where cancer is very rare, but if people from those cultures adopt a western diet and lifestyle they soon lose their immunity to cancer. By making a few simple changes to your diet and lifestyle, you can reduce the odds of getting cancer.

In this fascinating but easy to read book on how to prevent cancer, discover not only why this is, but also why, despite all the money being spent on cancer research, the cancer rate in the Western world continues to rise.

How do you get cancer?

Every pregnant woman develops trophoblast cancer cells as a natural part of her pregnancy. The pregnancy urine test you can buy in any chemist shop, works by detecting these cancer cells. But pregnant women do not go on and develop cancer, in this book you will find out why, and what our body's natural defences against cancer are.

You will also learn:

- Why every cancer patient has a parasite/yeast /fungi infection.
- The link between nutrition and cancer.

- Why before you get cancer, your body needs to have suffered an injury.

- That many common household chemicals can cause such an injury.

And much more
